Shipping

Peninsula's fleet consists of both owned and chartered tankers. Controlling our own tonnage means we can source cargo direct from refineries anywhere in the world and transport them to our storage facilities safely and efficiently. This flexibility ensures consistent supply of high quality product to our customers.

Storage

Peninsula features strategic storage positions in support of its physical supply business. Storage ensures consistency of supply and guarantees quality, combining with our logistics strength to deliver operational excellence as standard.

Operations

Peninsula's operations teams ensure seamless supply and service delivery. Working 24/7 with ship agents, port authorities, barges, terminals and other intermediaries delivers incident-free supply to our customers.

Reselling / Additional Services

Peninsula's global reselling business is equally as important to us as physical supply. It enables us to offer a combination of options to meet customer needs. We deploy our physical knowledge across our reselling business to ensure that customers get optimal local supply solutions.

Peninsula's reselling hubs span the globe and our teams provide local expertise and advice built on long-standing relationships with carefully vetted supply partners. We create solutions and remove problems.

Credit risk

Peninsula's credit underwriting is comprehensive and conservative. We feature credit risk teams in London and Singapore from a range of shipping and credit risk backgrounds, ensuring that we understand our customers and their businesses. We fully insure our debtor book and provide full transparency to all professional stakeholders partnering with our business.

Quality

Peninsula has made a substantial investment in a dedicated in-house fuel quality division. We did this with our customers in mind. Our in-house expertise allows us to maintain rigorous controls over our own product, as well as being in a position to help our customers get the advice they need when it comes to procurement.

Risk management

Peninsula takes zero price risk on purchases and sales of oil. A globally represented hedging team absorb price risk from our daily activities and a risk management, middle office team ensures accuracy of hedges and plots underlying profit and loss on a real time basis.

Post-fixture services

Peninsula's post fixture teams are populated with industry experts whose obsession is customer experience. We combine expert advice with fast and efficient problem-solving to ensure that we are providing the best operational follow-up in bunkers, including fuel quality input, next port bunkering advice or even de-bunkering services.

Governance and compliance

Peninsula has a professional reputation for transparency and reliability. We observe the highest standards of legal and regulatory compliance, working with technical, legal and IT experts to guarantee the most optimal risk and compliance framework

Where are we going?

Peninsula has updated its strategic vision, developing three core 'pillars' that form key focus areas for our business, both today and in the future. Customer centricity, Sustainability and Technology will drive the future of the bunker industry over the medium term and Peninsula will focus on harnessing these pillars to continue delivering innovative marine energy solutions.

Peninsula believes there is no single correct choice of future fuel. A combination of options will converge in delivering zero emissions by 2050. LNG is Peninsula's chosen transition fuel. LNG offers customers significantly lower CO2 emissions now as we plan our journey towards 'net zero'. We will partner with customers, helping them to navigate existing and future available choices, creating solutions together in order to keep energy flowing.
